Personal statement

I am currently a second-year student, studying Interior Design at the University of Salford. I consider myself as a creative and enthusiastic individual passionate about design, dealing every situation with a positive mindset. My morals are to be calm and understanding in all situations as this allows me to be considerate and understanding to myself and my peers. Having a keen eye for detail, allows me to think outside the box, producing alternatives and changes if necessary. During my course I have learnt a wide range of skills including model making and technical drawing. I am a person who would love to gain more experience within my career.

Retail- 2018-2019 - I have gained skills working as a retailer. Skills such as self-management, commercial awareness, responsibility (with team and without). Self-management is a skill that is beneficial to me as this is important when working in the outside world as it brings the factors of being punctual, flexible and getting work done on time. Gaining other skills such as leadership, teamwork. Working in retail has also increased my knowledge on what customer needs are. I have also had the opportunity to work on my own which has helped build my confidence and allowed me to understand myself and others.
